

Marko Brkljačić is the Chief Operating Officer (COO) at Rimac Technology, where he is responsible for the company's operational and strategic leadership. He began his career at Tokić, where over eight years he advanced to the position of Chief Digital Transformation and Innovation Officer. He joined Rimac Group as Project Lead for the integration of Rimac and Bugatti, and previously also served as Chief of Staff for Mate Rimac.

He is an economist by education and has completed the Executive MBA program at COTRUGLI Business School. He has extensive experience in digital transformation, innovation, business development and management of complex technology organizations.