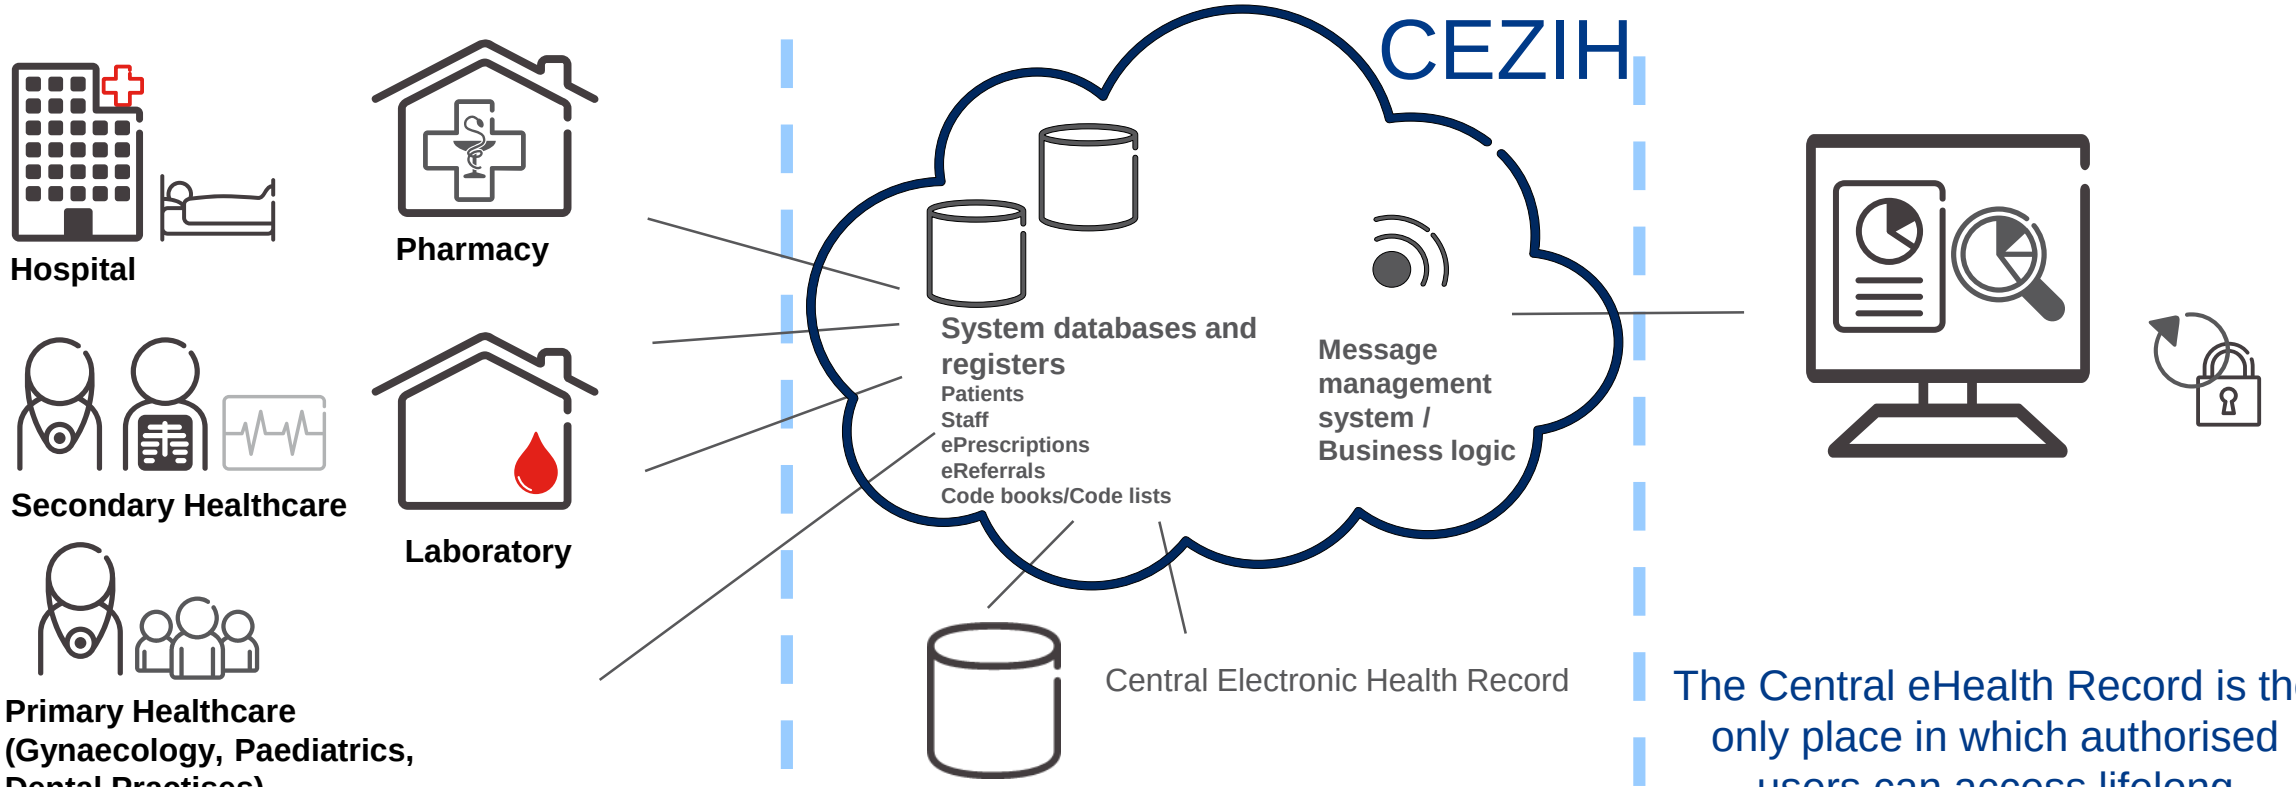
eHealth Record



In local applications, medical staff have access to data generated by themselves or those sent to them specifically (for example, laboratory results).

A large amount of medical data goes through CEZIH (ePrescription, eReferral, reports from primary healthcare check-ups…)

Centrally stored medical information

The Central eHealth Record is the only place in which authorised users can access lifelong comprehensive medical data on a patient.

The source of data can be any application connected to CEZIH.